ANCIENT BROTHERHOOD

ANCIENT BROTHERHOOD is Gerald Jay Markoe on percussion and celestial synthesizer soundtracks, and A. Brent Chase (Diné) on Native flute. Gerald tells us that in the summer of 1994, through a series of unusual events he landed in Sedona. Together they worked on an album that would blend Brent's earth element of Native music with Gerald's synthesized celestial music. Although Brent and Gerald did not know each other before this they were amazed at how the music came to them, as though created somewhere in the universe, flowing through them. They felt as though they were ancient brothers, finally reunited. Their music creates the unique experience of dancing among stars while being connected to the earth

- Vol. 1 - DANCES: Where the Earth Touches the Stars; recorded in Sedona

Brent and Gerald state that they feel that they were inspired and guided by the great spirit in producing this album. Songs include: Anasazi Stardance, Moonrise at Bell Rock, Vortex Ceremony, Pleiades Rising, Desert Night Riders, Keepers of the Tradition, Sacred Lands, and Twilight Between Two World

BRULÉ

Brulé, a.k.a., Paul La Roche, plays the piano, an instrument that does not fit with the stereotypical image of a Native musician, but then again nothing about La Roche is typical. Paul, discovering he is Lakota after his adoptive parents died in 1993, moved back to the reservation where his spiritual awakening has deeply affected his life and his music. Immersing himself in Lakota music gave him back a spiritual dimension that he'd lost sight of living in the city. Besides a trained pianist, Paul is an accomplished musician on guitar and numerous other musical instruments. He is also a composer, arranger, producer and audio engineer. Paul's goal is to be a positive role model for other aspiring Native American artists and musicians

- WE THE PEOPLE: A TRIBAL GATHERING OF MUSIC

Performing with Paul on this album of original pieces are chanters and vocalists: Jay Begaye (Dineh); Bryan Akipa (Dakota), Earl Bullhead (Lakota) Lizzy Sarobey (Arawak), Jack Anquoe (Kiowa); Guy & Allen (Dineh); and Comanche (Comanche). Songs include: Sacred Praises, Brave Hearts and 10 more.

JOY HARJO & POETIC JUSTICE

Joy came of age in the midst of a shifting, political national native consciousness. She carried her mother's love of singing and songwriting with her, and her father's oratorical and artistic accomplishments. Then one day she had to have a saxophone. That led her back to the stomp grounds of her heart. She began to sing.

- LETTER FROM THE END OF THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

Poet Joy Harjo, best selling author of several books including The Woman Who Fell From The Sky (1996) and She Had Some Horses, plays saxophone and speaks poetically potent lyrics over a Native American-jazz-rock-reggae musical backdrop. JOY HARJO & POETIC JUSTICE have toured extensively throughout the United States. They opened for the INDIGO GIRLS on their Honor The Earth Tour and have also performed with Bonnie Raitt & Toad The Wet Sprocket. "We play what has been called 'tribal-jazz-reggae,' which also contains elements of rock, blues, prophecy and poetry. Our audiences have been know to dance wildly in the aisles." Joy Harjo

- NATIVE JOY FOR REAL

Native Joy For Real marks Joy Harjo's debut as a singer/songwriter. An album so strong, so brimming with soul and beauty that even long time fans will be astonished by the power of its poetic vision. She has created ten singular invocations of contemporary life, on and off the reservation, that deal with the joys and tribulations of everyday existence. The music blends traditional Native rhythms and singing with jazz, rock, blues and a touch of hip-hop. Joy's trademark intensity is inspiring. The songs feature memorable refrains, smoky sax, subtle pow wow based beats, and uplifting lyrics. The unifying factor is Harjo's poetic and political vision. Ten songs include The Last World of Fire and Trash, This Is My Heart, Reality Show, and The Had-It-Up-To-Here Round Dance.
MEK-001 CD $17.98

- SHE HAD SOME HORSES

Joy Harjo recites poetry from her book She Had Some Horses. She began her journey with poetry over 30 years ago. Her style was raw and fresh. She didn't think about poetry, she just was poetry. She struggled for indigenous and women's rights. A bonus track is included with Joy reciting and playing the saxophone. Spoken word.

- WINDING THROUGH THE MILKY WAY

Here is a little road music to accompany us as we make the timeless journey between earth and sky. We're on a story that will always include the ancient while riding to the outer edge. We'll get there with music, poetry, lyrics, stories, sheer sorrow and joy. Start with a voice. Let it fly free. Bring in a saxophone to touch those places the words cannot reach. Add an insatiable guitar, some heavy philosophical bass, a little piano and Mvskoke and other tribal rhythms to take us back to Congo Square and before, back up into the Milky Way. Add the good thoughts of those we've met along the way. We've got it and we're traveling now. The 12 tracks include Morning Song, This is My Heart, Rabbit is Up to Tricks, and Witchi Tai To.

I AM WALKING*- NEW NATIVE MUSIC

Moving to ancient pulse and modern beat, embodying rhythm and movement, new native music is a meeting of the world's people within and without the widening circle of Native American song. The artists of I AM WALKING share a deep respect for Indian traditions - but are not locked in the past. Unconstrained by ceremony or ritual, these performers are free to interpret traditional forms and augment them with music unlimited by chronology or locale. Distinctive cultures merge, Native rhythms and melodies mesh with those of Europe, Africa, Japan, and many other lands. Cedar flute is joined by piano; human voice and synthesizers harmonize; water drums and modern percussion lay down a vital pulse of ancient rhythms in contemporary signatures. Artists include Andrew Vasquez, Little Wolf Band, Gary Stroutsos, R. Carlos Nakai, Joseph Fire Crow, Joanne Shenandoah, Walela and Yeha Noha from the Sacred Spirits album. 13 songs.

DR. LEWIS MEHL-MADRONA*- IMAGERY & DIALOGUE WITH OUR ANCESTORS

Dr. Mehl-Madrona comes from a mixture of cultures: Cherokee and Scottish from the Appalachian Mountains of the USA on his mothers side, and Quebeoise and Oglala from South Dakota on his fathers side. Because of this, he has been trying to bridge cultures and facilitate genuine cross-cultural communication throughout his life. He has written three books all of which show the value that aboriginal healing traditions have to offer the modern world. Throughout history, the world's indigenous peoples have relied upon their ancestors for guidance - through stories passed from generation to generation and through direct contact with those spirits. Imagery & Dialogue With Our Ancestors builds upon this idea, facilitating a process in which we become able to directly communicate with one of our ancestral spirits. It will work just as well even if you don't believe in spirits. It will help facilitate a process of self-discovery, knowledge, and healing either as metaphor or as real dialogue with an ancestral spirit. The results do not depend on whether you believe in this process as real or as metaphor. If you will, let yourself feel just a little bit (or maybe a bit more) of what it feels like to live within this belief system and worldview. (Meditation)

DOC TATE NEVAQUAYA

Doc Tate Nevaquaya, (Comanche) was born in Fletcher Oklahoma in 1932. Doc Tate is one of a handful of Native American Flutists who play traditional songs from hundreds of years ago and he has gone to extremes to research and learn the old traditional songs that were once lost. After traveling world wide to perform, Doc Tate Nevaquaya is considered the Master of Native American Flute. He makes all his flutes by hand giving each flute its own unique sound. Doc plays by ear, as Indians had no written scale. In 1968 Doc Tate received the National Endowment award for reviving the flute which was a lost and dying art.

- LEGENDS ARE FOREVER

(originally titled "THE MASTER")

When the world lost Doc Tate, we lost one of the last Native American flutists who knew and played the traditional songs from hundreds of years ago. When one listens to these songs we hear music that was once lost, but due to the efforts of Doc Tate we can hear forever the music that was once such a unique part of life for the Native American. Doc Tate passed on March 5, 1996, but he left with us a legacy of how to make and play the flute for generations to come. Nine songs including Doc Tate's Lament, Zuni Sunrise and Comanche Moon.

- JOURNEY TO THE FOUR WINDS

Indigenous people have used music to communicate their deepest hopes and beliefs to each other, and to the forces of the universe. The most ancient and natural forms of musical expression were the voice, the drum and the flute. These timeless channels of healing and meditation can also summon us to reflect on our our personal season of life in the "Journey to the Four Winds." Tony utilizes many unique indigenous instruments from around the world with their own colors and rhythms to create harmonious offerings to the Four Winds of the Universe. It is his hope that we can all be united by the pulse of the drum, soaring higher and higher with the melody of the voice and flute. Tony, a member of the Navajo Nation, is a hoop dancer, flutist, professional speaker, world beat percussionist, and artist. Sit back and enjoy the experience of "Journey to the Four Winds."

THE RETURN OF THE BUFFALO HORSES

Music and traditional songs woven around a Native American story. The Blackfeet first heard about the horse after they made peace with the Cree. During a visit the Cree talked about these animals which were big, fast and strong like buffalo or elk. They could be used like dogs for carrying heavy burdens and could also be ridden by a man because they were very gentle. This is the story of how the Blackfeet first acquired the amazing elk-dog and how it changed their lives; how they were taken away; and how they have now been returned to them. A beautiful recording by Darrell Norman (Ee-Nees-Too-Wah-See) and Ramon Kramer.

TERRY WIDRICK

- BY SACRED WATERS

Terry is a minister, a spiritual counselor, an educator, singer, dancer, artist, craftsman, and flute maker. His work is focused on keeping the rich cultural heritage of the Native North American people alive. Terry tells us "Our elders tell us of a time at the beginning of creation when the rivers ran in both directions. We were told these waters were sacred and we, as human beings had to be very careful what was put into the water, for there would come a day that it all flows back to us. We are now in that stage where the water that returns to us is beginning to kill us. If we are to survive, we must start putting clean things back into the rivers. That way when our children and their children's children go to drink or bath in the water, it will be clean and they will remember those of us who have gone on before them and they will say thanks." 9 beautiful and inspiring songs

Songs include Cherokee Elders, Dancers of the Fire, Cherokee Voices, A Warrior's Spirit and Flames of Fire.

WILD-4 Cassette $2.00 CD $15.98

- THE FIRE PEOPLE

With the soothing melodies of these songs, a trance of comfort and healing gives beauty to Indian America. In this recording Tommy plays a flute made from a poplar tree that had been struck by lightning. Some people believe that the name Cherokee is a derivative of a-tsil-a-gi-ga-ge-ia-ni-sga-ya which means "Red Fire People." From ancient times, fire was maintained in the center of the temples. In later times, the sacred fire burned in the center of the town houses. Songs include Cherokee Mother, One's Life Journeys, Honoring Friends, Cherokee Home Coming and The Fire People.

WILD-5 Cassette $2.00

- POW WOW FLUTES

Tommy presents a double recording. The first album contains six of his beautifully traditional flute songs including Spirit Of America, Tecumseh, and Indian Confederacy. The second contains nine pow wow drum songs performed by Big Mountain including a fancy war dance, a sneak-up, a smoke dance, a grass dance, and more. #### - AH-NEE-YVH-WE-YVH

This CD honors leaders and ancient warrior flute players who accompanied tribal leaders while greeting the first arrival of European explorers to the North American continent. Tommy records his latest melodies with a 6-hole flute. Eight songs: Sequoyah's Song, Sitting Bull's Song, Crazy Horse's Song, Tecumseh's Song, Wildcat/Osceola's Song, Little Turtle's Song, Pontiac's Song and Chief Joseph's Song.

WILD-7 CD $15.98

- RED FIRE PEOPLE

The color red represents power and success. Red was the color of the east and the Cherokee believed that bravery was attained from the sun, or the east. From ancient times, fire was maintained in the center of the temple mounds. In later times, the sacred fire kept burning in the center of the town house. This instrumental flute CD was played with a flute made from a lightning struck poplar tree. Beginning with the sound of a cold winter wind, the soothing melodies of the songs gives a trance of comfort and healing representing the beautiful essence of American Indian music. Five songs are Trail of Tears, Indian Spirits, Sacred Fire, Ancient Flutes, and Red Fire People.

WACHAN BAJIYOPERAK

- INKA SUNRISE

Wachan Bajioperak was born in Ciromayo Cusco Peru in 1962. His father was a HAMPPIG medicine man. Since his early childhood Wachan showed a deep connection with the temples and the old ways of his ancestors. He was trained by his father in Natural Medicine, and by his mother in traditional Inka music and mythology. Wachan is working to restore and preserve the medicine, music, language, and religion of his culture. This music is for healing. The songs express the rhythms of life, like the wind that sings in the trees with the birds and the rivers and oceans that dance with the roar of thunder. Ten songs including traditional melodies and new songs composed by Wachan himself. Songs include Pachamama (Mother Earth), Mosoq' Illariy

(Song of Hope), Elme (Love Song), and Hampiq' Taki (Healing Song).
ASTRO-008 CD $16.98

INKUYO - MUSIC OF THE ANDES

The Incas used music as a medium to transmit their history. As they had no written language, they recounted events and stories through their music. Owing to this tradition, the Incas not only were able to preserve their history, but also the music and instruments that were played in their festivals. To this day daily chores and significant events are played out in music - musical rhythms born from numerous cultural mixes and influences. INKUYO offers listeners a variety of Andean-born rhythms while emulating the sounds of ancient songs, dances and festivals which remain popular and celebrated today. Listeners are joyfully carried back to the earliest Incan civilizations through a combination of modern compositions and traditional pieces inspired by the land and its people. It is works such as this that are not only beautiful but preserve and perpetuate culture and history while informing and cultivating a broad and appreciative audience. INKUYO: Pamela Darlington, guitar, sikus, charango, pututu, drums, vocals and the founding member of INKUYO; Gonzalo Varga, quena, violin, sikus, antara, drums, vocals; Daniel Zamallo, guitar, violin, mandolin, bandurria, bass guitar, vocals.

- LAND OF THE INCAS

This album is a mix of contemporary and traditional pieces. Songs include: Camino A Inkuyo - inspired by a trip to Inkuyo, a remote mountain village high in the heart of the Andes where people still live as their ancestors have for centuries; Uña, a contemporary piece in the traditional Huayno rhythm, one of the oldest and still most popular rhythms in Peru, Bolivia and northern parts of Argentina and Chile. Plus seventeen other pieces telling the story of a people with a rich and deep cultural heritage. Liner notes on all the songs.

- TEMPLE OF THE SUN

One of the most important aspects of the Inca culture was its religion. The Incas linked much of their daily life and worship with their religious beliefs, nature the elements, such as the sun, moon, thunder, pachamama (mother earth) and many other marvels of nature. Songs include: T'iskuy Vicuna by Fredy Vargas, a modern composition inspired by the gracefulness and agility of the vicuna, the smallest and most beautiful cousin of the llama; Estampa Tapacarimanta, a traditional festive song selection from festival days; and eleven other songs and dances inspired by locations, honoring events and cultural practices and traditions of the Incan people. Liner notes tell the stories of the songs.
17-080 Cassette $2.00 CD $16.98

- DOUBLE-HEADED SERPENT

The serpent is a recurrent figure in religious beliefs, ceremonies, activities and legends. Folktales and legends surrounding it in practically every culture have combined to produce religious overtones in many different parts of the world. While in many religions the snake is primarily a symbol, direct worship of the snake as a god-like creature (rather than as an indirect representation) is not uncommon. Python worshippers are found in Africa, and the cobra cults of India are well known. Quetzalcoatl was the feathered serpent of the Aztecs. In the U.S. the serpent is also an active symbol for certain Protestant sects and Hopi

Indians, and Burmese snake charmers, who end their ceremonies with a kiss on the top of the cobra's head. Handling of snakes is done both as a gesture of belief and faith in the power of the gods and as an act of defiance of the same power. These songs celebrate the double headed serpent.

- PACHAKUTI: THE OVERTURNING OF SPACE-TIME

The two cultures that developed in the Andean region, Aymara and Quechua, were rich in their traditions, myths and knowledge of astronomy, which they lived by. In the Andean concept of time, it was believed that long periods of time were linked by severe events which they called Pachakuti, from the Quechua/Aymara word Pacha, that means both space and time, and kuti, that means to overturn or to turn back. Together Pachakuti means the overturning of space-time; a millennial moment in which one world ends and another begins; a total transformation of things. Although the concept of pachakuti doesn't really relate to music, with the realities we are living with the beginning of this millennium - world and religious events as well as natural disasters - one would think we are going through a pachakuti. 14 songs representing a change in space-time as only Inkuyo can.

TITO LA ROSA

- THE PROPHECY OF THE EAGLE AND THE CONDOR

The sounds of North and South American cultures are united on this remarkable recording by Tito La Rosa, sound healer and renowned Peruvian master of ancient instruments. Performing on numerous exotic instruments on Incan and pre-Incan cultures, La Rosa is accompanied by North American Native musicians Mary Youngblood (INDIE and NAMMY Award Winner) on flute and Shkeme Garcia (from the band 'Native Roots') on vocals. Wind instruments, percussion, and chant combine with contemporary sounds to create an emotional and joyful musical telling of this ancient prophecy of unity. Tita La Rosa is a descendant of the Quechue Indians of the Andes Mountains. Mary Youngblood is of Aleut and Seminole ancestry. Shkeme Garcia is from the Santa Ana Pueblo of New Mexico. 12 songs including All One Nation, The Dance of the Puma and the Wolf and Celebration.

LOS INCAS

LOS INCAS is comprised of Yovani (Quechua), Juan (Diaguaita/Mapuche), Raul Chachapoyas (Qheshwa), and Pedro Diaz (Qheshwa). LOS INCAS is not just a musical group but an expression of those who understand the message of La Raza. Their music is not a cry of a broken spirit, but an affirmation of human survival. They have created a mystical and sweeping sound that evolved from blending a variety of tra-ditional and contemporary indigenous music of the Americas. LOS INCAS made their television debut with Carole King on Entertainment Tonight, followed by guest appearances for international television and two feature films. In 1992 LOS INCAS was honored to represent The Year of Indigenous People at the United Nations. LOS INCAS performed across three continents with Paul Simon on his 1993-94 tour. During 1996-97, Yovani collaborated in the appearance and performance of the musical score in Tim Allen's Walt Disney film Jungle to Jungle.

- DEDICATED TO TUPAC AMARU

Jose Gabriel Condorcanqui Noguera Thupa Amaro II, known as Tupac Amaru. An Incan, El Tupac's most notable and noble contribution to the South American Indigenous Movement was his formation of a self-governing nation. He was interested in unifying all ethnicities and sectors of South America. His witnessing of the abuses committed by the Spanish invaders against his nation inspired a massive Indian revolt that shook the dominance of the Spanish Americas. Tupac Amaru paid with his life and the lives of his wife and three children. Out of this injustice a seed of self-determination and desire for independence was planted and has grown into what is now Central and South America.

- FROM THE OTHER SIDE OF THE VOLCANO

LOS INCAS tells us, "In 1992 we were commemorating 500 years of holding on to our way of life for our 7th generation ...through our music we make an urgent call for all people to come together to help mend the sacred hoop...on the morning of Monday, June 22, 1992, while this album was being created, a massive violation of human rights was taking place: 900 innocent men, women and children joined in passive resistance to protect and preserve their human rights and their land, were camped out in the Plaza Mayor in front of the Government Building in Guatemala City. Without warning, they were awakened with violence by police and security forces - tents were slashed and their money and personal belongings were stolen. They were then divided into union workers and farmers, and kidnapped. This was all administered by the Minister of Government". LOS INCAS dedicates this album to the Maya Quiche Nation and its descendents, whom they feel have been able to maintain a profoundly civilized and humble human existence despite persistent violations.

MYSTIC WARRIORS

A group of 5 young musicians with various backgrounds and nationalities, MYSTIC WARRIORS has been performing in the Washington DC area since 1982 exposing the essence of Andean music in a modern & unique way. The music played is a feast of Indian flutes, pan pipes of different sizes and Indian drums that go back to the times before Columbus. The music is characteristic of the Andean mountain range which sits in what today are the countries of Bolivia, Ecuador, the northern parts of Argentina and Chile and the southern parts of Columbia and Venezuela. Wind instruments used in their recordings are characteristic of the Aymara culture which was located in the alti-plano (high planes) region, a part of the Inca empire, and blend in complete harmony with their string instruments, Indian imitations of the guitar brought by the Spanish. MYSTIC WARRIORS has earned a well-deserved reputation for their originality, profession-alism and musical integrity. Their haunting melodies reflect the powers of nature transcending time and space, exposing the social, political and cultural feelings of the common people of Latin America with high energy tunes.

- MYSTIC WARRIORS

MYSTIC WARRIORS is: Andres Mallea on Winds (Panflutes, and flutes), Bass, Key-boards, Classical Guitar, Charango, Percussion and Vocals; Marco Mallea on 12 String, Classical Guitar, and Percussion; Omar Martinez on Musical Support; and invited musician, Juan Carlos Robles on Keyboard #5. #### - BEYOND REALITY

MYSTIC WARRIORS have created a sound uniquely their own. It is fresh, fun, and filled with the passion of The Andes. The pan pipes and other wind instruments are quite exotic, with the largest bass notes resonating powerfully. Each of the ten tracks is a jewel. The wind instruments and some string instruments used in this recording are characteristic of the Aymara Culture which was located in the high plains region of Bolivia, South America and was part of the Incan Empire.

- ANTHOLOGY OF THE ANDES

The people of the Andes have lived in the highlands of South America since approximately 1400 B.C. They have passed on their culture, traditions, art and music from one generation to another. The last pure generation of these highland people were the Incas. The traditional music which lives in the mountains and valleys of the Andes, to this day remains a central part of the societies living in this region. Thanks to the musicians who continue to use the same instruments as their ancestors before them, that music lives. This is the first anthology of modern Andean music with musical instruments that have been played for generations and melodies modernised by the incorporation of the classical guitar and Charango. The wind instruments and some string instruments used in the recording are characteristic of the Aymara culture which was located in the high plains region of Bolivia, South America and was part of the Incan Empire. Ten songs including El Condor Pasa, Llamor and Ojos Azules.

ÑANDA MAÑACHI

- ANDEAN MUSIC

"Ñanda Mañachi" means "Please let me use your path in order to cross." This saying originated during the annual Sun Festival or Inti Raimi. Much like the Feast Days on any Pueblo, the Inti Raimi festivities encourages every house to be laden with food and drink. Musicians and dancers go house to house and in order to go to a different house they must travel along the previous one's path, so in order to cross they ask "Ñanda Mañachi". Six of the 20 Ñanda Mañachi musicians are represented in this album playing traditional music, from Ecuador, Bolivia, Columbia and Peru. They incorporate flutes, (kenas, rodador, sampona/ pan pipes), strings (charango, guitar), percussion (sheep hoof maracas, scraper, claves) and the big Tumba or drum that beats out the heartbeat.

XAVIER QUIJAS YXAYOTL

- AMERICA INDIGENA - MUSIC OF ANCIENT MEXICO

This precolumbian music was prohibited for 300 years due to the intensity and deep spiritual impact it had on the people of that time. All the musical sounds are the natural sounds of handmade instruments from ancient Mexico including: Mayan & Aztec drums & clay flutes, Tarahumara drums, turtle shells and Mayan ocean drum. Xavier is a descendant of the Huichol Indians of Mexico. He has dedicated his life to the music, art & spiritual beliefs of ancient Mexico, investigating the music of the many different tribes. This is an ancient music for a new generation.

- SONORAN NIGHTS

The contemporary world music trio known as ARC - Gabriel Ayala (guitar), Vince Redhouse (Native American flute and tenor sax) and Will Clipman (percussion) - brings a sound both fresh and familiar to the world stage. Gabriel Ayala (Yaqui) is at the forefront of a new generation of Native Americans performing classical music on the classical guitar. Two-time Grammy® nominee Vince Redhouse (Navajo) is a leading innovator in adapting the Native American flute to the jazz and classical idioms, and has developed a unique technique for playing it as a chromatic instrument. Ayala's flamenco and tango-flavored classical guitar is interwoven with Redhouse's jazz-inflected Native American flute and tenor sax; both are subtly propelled by the pan-global percussion of four time Grammy® nominee Will Clipman. This avant-garde ensemble defies easy categorization, but might best be described as new world fusion. Ten songs including Ave Maria (Franz Schubert), Pavane (Gabriel Faure), Canon in D (Johann Pachelbel), and four original compositions by Gabriel Ayala.

ARVEL BIRD*- JOURNEY OF A PAIUTE

International award-winning World violinist Arvel Bird has returned to his classical roots to create his "soul's song." Tribal Music Suite: Journey of a Paiute has been 35 years in the making, and although it's not autobiographical, in many ways it follows Arvel's own journey. Classical in form, Arvel's violin blends classical, Celtic, and world music to weave the story of a young Paiute mixed-blood, Quanineh born in 1829, who is taken from his home-land at an early age and then travels the world to find his way home. With an exciting twist, this concerto brings the power and drama of the Native American drum and flute to the symphony orchestra in eight entrancing movements.

- BEARING WITNESS

We use our creativity to encounter our Creator. Putting that encounter into a form to share with others brings it full-circle. BEARING WITNESS is about taking fragments of beauty (each song) and forming them into a whole recording. The quality of paying attention to the hole is called holiness. The artistic process is about completing a project into which we have felt lead. Coming full-circle through our creativity is about closing the sacred hoop of Divine connection. 15 songs performed on Native American flutes, alto flute, drums, rattles, and sticks. Songs include Bears' Flight, Butterfly, Mourning, and Deep Sleep.

SACRED SPIRIT*- CHANTS & DANCES OF THE NATIVE AMERICANS

After much deliberation we have made the decision to carry this special recording from Virgin Records. Although produced in North Africa, it does contain some beautiful music. With the exception of two songs, they are all traditional Native American songs though performed in a New Age style. We held off carrying this recording for many years due to it not being an authentic Native recording. It deserves to be listened to. It truly is a remarkable CD. 11 songs including Wishes Of Happiness & Prosperity (Yela-Noha), The Cradlesong (Dawa), Elevation (Ta-Was-Ne), and Celebrate Wild Rice (Ya-Na-Hana).
